In 1984 Nicholas Lynch was working on his brother John's fishing boat, The Marita, when he decided to branch out into the processing and wholesale side of the fishing industry.

Today Nicholas Lynch Ltd is run by Nicholas and Niall Murray who, with their team, have developed a strong wholesale business as well as two award-winning retail shops. The company focuses on quality, with all produce undergoing a 'hand filleting' process.

In the last decade, staff numbers have grown from 10 to 25, and Nick's Fish Company believes its commitment to quality and attention, along with its loyal customer base, has aided this growth.

Its state-of-the-art processing premises is located in Ashbourne, Co. Meath, which offers transport access to the M50 via the N2. This company is IOFGA certified as well as kosher with regard to salmon. This company supplies all white fish; shellfish and salmon products, with all processing done in house

Why Us

As a small family-run business, Nick's Fish Company pays great attention to detail, keeping constant contact with customers as well as a keen eye on all orders leaving the factory. This ensures a consistent quality product, tailored to the customer's specification.

The team strives to provide the freshest fish available from Ireland and further afield, with up to four fresh deliveries to the processing premises daily.
