A fifth-generation farming business, run by brothers Paul and Joe Finnegan, Finnegan's Farm is situated in Balrath, Navan, Co. Meath. Specialising in winter wheat, winter barley, spring barley, oilseed rape and, of course, potatoes, Paul and Joe run two separate companies in parallel with each other onsite.

E. Finnegan & Sons specialises in fresh vegetable products, while the newly formed Bellew Food Company focuses on added value par-cooked products.

Turning what is essentially surplus stock into something saleable, the Finnegan brothers want to boost potato consumption by making it a more fashionable and convenient staple of modern-day meals. With no additives or preservatives and boasting only two or three ingredients, the naturally sourced and fresh-tasting potato range encourages a healthier lifestyle.

Why Us

As fifth-generation farmers, the Finnegan brothers have the knowledge and expertise to grow many different varieties, providing the customer with quality produce with excellent flavours, textures, colours and shapes. All produce is grown, produced and packed onsite.

Comprising of only two or three ingredients, the range is preservative- and additive-free, providing a naturally-sourced, fresh-tasting, traditional potato range.
