The Teeling Whiskey Company was founded by Jack Teeling in 2012 in the hopes of reviving an independent voice of the Irish whiskey category.

Its aim is to be Ireland's leading independent whiskey producer, driving category choice and innovation through a selection of unique handcrafted small batch Irish whiskeys.

Jack and his brother Stephen, who is the sales and marketing director, have launched a new Dublin distillery to guarantee future supply and ensuring control of the distilling process from grain to bottle.

The company currently employs over 80 staff across sales, marketing, operations, quality, administration and warehousing and production. Head office and distillation operations are based in Dublin 8 and maturation and warehousing is based in Greenore, Co. Louth.

Why Us

Situated in the heart of Dublin's Liberties, The Teeling Whiskey Company is bringing the craft of whiskey-making back to the city.

With a selection of unique handcrafted small batch Irish whiskeys, its aim is to drive category choice and innovation, while reviving the independent spirit of Dublin.
